

James Boler
Kentucky Arts Council Board
Adolphus

Jamie Boler owns Red Elephant Studio in Scottsville with his wife, Lindsey. The Western Kentucky University graduate's motto, personally and in business, is that the arts, in whatever form or fashion, push us, they drive us to reach further, to think deeper and to wonder "what if?" The arts breed a desire to learn and to educate.

The path to find one's voice as an artist is as difficult as it is rewarding, this is a path Boler is still traveling, it is a path that along the way we share, we learn and we grow. Boler hopes that along the way he is able to impact and to educate others as much as some have him, to be a positive and active part of a much bigger picture.

The Boler family has two children, Leighton, and Miles.