Creative Industry Summit Sponsorship Opportunities

Dear Stakeholders in the Arts,

After a whirlwind summer of grant awards and good news for the arts, we are preparing for a very active fall, including our second annual Kentucky Creative Industry Summit Nov. 12-13 at the Owensboro Convention Center.

The format has expanded from one to two days, adding a day of pre-summit workshops on Nov. 12 before the main summit on Nov. 13. I'm excited to announce that Pam Breaux, chief executive officer of the National Assembly of State Arts Agencies, will be a special guest at the summit. We'll have more information about her involvement, and information about our full summit line-up, in a later edition of Arts E-News.

It's been almost a year since we released the Kentucky Creative Industry Report, so this summit will be a chance for us to report on the work we've done since we began to concentrate on developing the industry. It will also help us map out the trail ahead. Keep an eye on our website, Facebook and Twitter pages for an announcement about registering to attend the summit. It's going to be a great event and I hope to see you there!

We are also seeking sponsorships for the summit. Even though it is in Owensboro, this summit is relevant to all communities across the Commonwealth, so we are presenting these sponsorship opportunities to entities in all corners of Kentucky — businesses, large and small; economic and community development organizations; individuals and stakeholders in the arts and creative industry. We invite any person or group who believes in improving the quality of life in their communities to consider investing in the Creative Industry Summit.

For information on becoming a sponsor of the 2015 Creative Industry Summit, visit the sponsor information page on the arts council's website, or contact Emily B. Moses, arts council creative industry manager, at 502-564-3757, ext. 472, or emilyb.moses@ky.gov.

Sincerely,

Lori Meadows

Executive Director
